INFORMATION PROJECT VITAL, SAYS MARSHALL

Tells Senate U. S. Foreign Policy Will Suffer If Program Trimmed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Secretary of State Marshall urged senate to approve in this session of congress legislation to strengthen information program he termed "vital to the success of our foreign policy," and told a senate foreign relations committee that unless congress acts on legislation authorizing a program, the state department will face "serious difficulties" abroad.

Senator Wiley (R-SD), author of the proposed measure now before the committee, also urged speedy action. He told the senators that lies and others are spreading malicious lies about us abroad.

G O P Leaders Delay

Republican leaders have indicated they may pigeonhole the measure until next January and slash the $70,470,000 appropriation the senate to carry on the program, including the Voice of America radio "Voice of Democracy broadcasts mentioning any foreign countries. Marshall complained that misstatements and actions of the United States are "often misunderstood and misrepresented abroad."

He continued:

"Reports about the United States are withheld or falsified before they leave are distorted. Our motives are not always speak for themselves unless the people of foreign countries have some understanding of the peaceful intention behind our policies."

'Delay Costly,' Says Marshall

"We earnestly hope that the senate will act on this bill at the present session of congress and not postpone action until next January. Such delay will cause some serious handicaps. If the bill is further delayed," Marshall said, he suggested that language of the house-approved bill be changed to make clear that a proposed advisory commission would not formulate policies to be carried out.

The two-man subcommittee, Senators Smith (R-NJ) and Hatch (D-NM) indicated approval of the measure which was passed by the house by a three-to-one margin after much debate.

MARYSVILLE TO PAY BEIGHTLER TRIBUTE

July 4 Homecoming To Be Held at Fairgrounds.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, July 2 — The American Legion Post here has completed its plans for what may become the biggest celebration ever to be held in this city on the occasion of "Bob Beightler Day," homecoming to be held at the Union county fairgrounds on July 4.

Guest of honor at the affair will be Major General Robert S. Beightler, a native of this city, who started his military career as a private in the old Co. E of the Ohio National Guard.

In addition to General Beightler, the entire staffs of both the 37th and new 37th Division have been invited to participate in the ceremonies at which Lt. Governor Paul V. Herbert will officiate.

Included on the day's program is to be an air show with fighter planes from the Lockbourne Air Base passing in review, a parade, basketball thrill shows, miscellaneous athletic contests, concessions, rides and night fireworks to wind out the day's activities.

Black Legion, Klan Story Lie, Rep. Jones Swears

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Members of the senate commerce committee today had a sworn statement from Rep. Robert F. Jones (R-O-hio), nominee for a place on the federal communications commission denying that his father was a member of the Ku Klux Klan and that he himself once belonged to the Black Legion as charged by columnist Drew Pearson today.

The sworn statement reiterated charges made by Jones from the witness stand in a hearing Friday, when he said that Pearson's charges were fabricated out of the whole cloth and rest upon a tissue of lies.

The commerce subcommittee, headed by Senator Brewster (R-Me), is expected to meet tomorrow to consider Jones' nomination.

RIVER BELIEVED AT TOP LEVEL

Mississippi Stationary After Rampage Which Leaves Thousands Homeless.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, July 2 — The muddy Mississippi river appeared to have reached its crest here today after smashing four main levees yesterday and routing thousands of persons from their homes in nearby Illinois communities.

The river remained stationary at 40.3, a 103-year high, and Harry F. Wahlgren, U. S. meteorologist, said it was expected to start falling before dark.

ST. LOUIS, July 2—The raging Mississippi river continued its destructive sweep past the St. Louis area today after breaking four nearby levees and routing thousands of persons from their homes when additional dikes were threatened.

The river surged to a 103-year high of 40-2 feet following Monday night's torrential rains, then remained stationary for several hours, but Harry F. Wahlgren, U. S. meteorologist, said the stream would probably climb another tenth of a foot before falling. The all-time record here is 41 3 set in 1844.

U. S army engineers estimated damage between Louisiana, Mo., and Cairo, Ill., at nearly $12,000,000—most of which was caused to farmland and buildings. Farm agents pointed out that most of the agricultural loss would result from inability to raise a crop in the growing period remaining.

Some 26,800 persons were reported homeless by the Red Cross in the four-state area of Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska.

U.S. MARKS UP FIRST SURPLUS IN 17 YEARS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Secretary of the Treasury Snyder announced today the government finished the 1947 fiscal year Monday with a budget surplus of almost $754,000,000.

That was approximately $500,000,000 less than President Truman had estimated on April 19 and $401,000,000 below the record high set under President Coolidge exactly 20 years ago.

But it was the first surplus in 17 years and it broke up a string of deficits that began under Herbert Hoover and had continued under Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman.

Snyder told a news conference that the surplus — which represents the amount that government income exceeded spending over the past 12 months—already has been applied on the national debt.

With that amount included, debt retirement over the fiscal year totaled $11,522,000,000 Snyder said.

The debt stood at $258,376,000,000 on June 30. That was $21,388,000,000 below the all-time peak reached 16 months ago.

Akron Jumps on Smoke Prevention Bandwagon

By International News Service

AKRON, July 2—Akron joined the growing list of cities with smoke prevention laws today.

City council passed a five-year plan which specifies that all heating equipment installed after July 15 must meet regulations, which go into effect that date.

Other equipment already in use must be improved at least 20 per cent each year for the five years and use of soft coal with more than 26 per cent ash is banned for manual firing.

Council also granted $45 pay increases to all city workers and jumped base pay $30 monthly.

Proof Asked From Truman

Angry G.O.P. Demands He Back Up Rent Lobby Blast with Evidence.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Angry Republican demands that President Truman produce evidence that real estate lobbyists influenced congress' rent control action exploded a new political battle today between the Democratic White House and G.O.P. lawmakers.

Calling on the President to order prosecution of any lobbyists he considers guilty of "subversive" activities, Senator Wherry (Neb), the Republican whip, said that if Mr Truman has no concrete evidence to back up his charges "he ought to apologize to congress."

In his message to congress when he signed the rent control bill Monday, Mr Truman said the "real estate lobby" had "displayed a ruthless disregard of the public welfare" by attempting to "weaken rent control and do away with necessary aid to housing."

He objected particularly to a section permitting 15 per cent rent increases when tenants and landlords sign leases for all of 1948.

The President asked for a congressional investigation of what he called the "brazen operations" of lobbyists, contending that "nothing could be more clearly subversive of representative government" than efforts to "block programs so essential to the needs of our citizens."

Senator Buck (R-Del) challenged the President's right to

AID FOR AGED ASKED AS MATTER OF RIGHT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Rep Alvin Weichel (R-Ohio) wants congress to change the social security program to expand old age assistance "as a matter of right."

Saying that he welcomed the visit here last week of Ohio members of Townsend old age pension clubs, Weichel added in a statement in the congressional record:

"The most important change to make it real is to pay benefits as a matter of right to every aged person."

He advocated elimination of rules by which he said 2,000,000 "toil worn" aged persons received help "only on a basis of need."

"This is not a mere question of words," Weichel said. "The cold fact that aid to the aged is not given as a matter of right takes the heart out of every aged person.

"It means that rigid limitations are placed on the aged person's little income if he is granted old age assistance. Personally, I have known an aged woman who was obliged to spend the few hundred dollars she had saved for her funeral before she could have the so-called aid for the aged.

"The relief agencies can and do pry into the little private affairs of our old people, some states requiring our worthy aged to turn over their meager savings, even a little home, household goods and personal property before aid is given.

"The field investigators snoop in the homes of these aged to make sure the budget is as low as possible. In many states every effort is made to keep from paying the maximum to the aged even with the federal government paying one half of the amount.

"Such indignities brought about by the so-called means test have no place in our American way of life.

"There are more humane ways and I believe the best way is to provide old age security insurance without red tape and the indignities of the present system which does not cover all our people who reach old age."

HOTELS ROCKET STANDING RENT

Boosts as High as 300 Per Cent Reported as Decontrol Becomes Effective.

By The Associated Press

Permanent residents in many hotels throughout the nation have received notices their rents are to be increased—ranging upward from 15 per cent.

Although a boost of 15 per cent was the most frequently reported as the hotels were freed from controls under the new federal rent law there were instances of rent increases as much as from 25 to 165 per cent.

There also were reported isolated cases of extreme hikes—of 300 per cent for a resident of a Denver tourist camp, and 200 per cent at a St. Louis hotel. New York City reported boosts of up to 50 per cent were fairly common and one hostelry raised rates 125 per cent.

No Boosts Announced

In contrast to increases by some hotels, there were others in some cities which announced there would be no boosts in rents for permanent residents. These included the Stevens in Chicago the world's largest; the Somerset in Boston and the White Plaza in Dallas, Tex.

Ohio's hotel rates will go up generally now that the OPA controls that held permanent-resident rates at a pre-war level have been lifted, said Capt. H Mowrey, executive secretary of the Ohio Hotels association.

Mowrey estimated that rooms for which full hotel service was furnished at $20-monthly under OPA probably would rise to $25 or maybe $27.50 and that those renting for $175 likely would go to $200.

"Won't Shoot the Moon"

He said that the hotels did not plan to "shoot the moon" but that occupants "must face the reality that everything which enters into providing" accommodations had increased in price.

In some cities many hotels did not disclose their immediate plans under the new law Some confusion was reported among tenants and landlords alike as they sought interpretation of the act Federal rent offices were swamped by callers seeking explanation.

Most of New York's hotels started boosting rents 15 per cent, but realty interests in the nation's largest city expressed alarm over the size of some increases in residential and apartment hotels. A tenant in a fashionable midtown hotel was advised his rent would be raised from $80 a month to $180.

Hotels in some cities—including New York, Chicago, Atlanta and Philadelphia—advised permanent residents who have been paying a monthly rental at reduced rates that they would be billed on a daily basis In some cases this would more than double rent payments

In Chicago, where hotel officials said 15 per cent was the average increase with a few cases of hikes up to 100 per cent or higher, some hostelries served eviction notices on tenants, using that method to have undesirable guests vacate.

275 Auto Fatalities Expected Over Fourth

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 2—The National safety council said today that 30 million cars will be on the nation's highways over the three-day Fourth of July holiday, causing the biggest traffic jam in history, and that 275 persons will be killed in traffic accidents.

The council added its estimate covers only immediate traffic deaths. Other victims will die later of injuries suffered over the holiday.

In addition, the toll of dead and injured will be augmented by drownings, fireworks casualties, heat exhaustion, food poisoning and other summer holiday hazards, the council predicted.

RUSSIA TURNS DOWN AID TO EUROPE PLAN

Philippine Capital City Held Briefly by Band Of Escaped Prisoners

By The Associated Press

MANILA, July 2—Thirty-two heavily armed escaped convicts last night seized control of Calapan, capital of Mindoro island, but military police reinforcements restored order late today after a bitter gun fight in which the rebel leader was killed.

Gov. Conrado Morente of Mindoro telegraphed Malacanan palace that 10 of the jail breakers had been captured, 19 still were at large and three were killed.

Morente, along with Calapan's mayor, Filomeno Sumaco, the city police chief and Congressman Raul Leuterio, were disarmed by the escapees but were not held as hostages as had been reported previously, the telegram said.

Reinforcements Flown In

Heavy reinforcements of military police were flown to Mindoro to put down the coup after a Philippines airline pilot managed to fly to Manila from the embattled capital and reported the uprising.

The pilot, Flight Capt Manuel Conde, reported he had been captured by a Lieutenant Romero, former military police officer serving 16 years for rape and who had boasted he controlled the town.

Kidnap Officials

The convicts had seized all local radio transmitters, cutting off communications from Calapan after Romero and 31 men had broken out of the prison stockade.

Romero then forced the town's police and one platoon of military police to disarm and rounded them up in a stockade the prisoners had just occupied

Radio operators at the airfield and aboard ships anchored in Calapan harbor were seized simultaneously, blacking out all communication with the outside world.

Conde said Romero was killed with a bullet in the head during a bitter battle with military police at the airport today.

Resistance Doesn't End

That was not the end of resistance, however The town still was in control of the escaped prisoners in the afternoon.

Military police headquarters here ordered two planeloads of reinforcements to Calapan late today while additional forces were brought from Batangas, on Luzon.

Calapan is about 80 miles due south of Manila.

The normally large military police force at Calapan had left the capital before the outbreak to conduct an operation against a number of Japanese stragglers who have terrorized villagers on nearby Lubang island.

In late afternoon, Globe Wireless intercepted a message from the motorship Coastal Champion saying "Advise group of men disarmed town policemen and rounded up all MP's, placed them in stockade. MP's from Batangas were rushed in and situation now believed under control."

Calapan was liberated by the 24th U S Infantry division on March 25, 1945. Lubang island nearby has been the scene of numerous campaigns to dislodge vicious Japanese holdouts.

Philippine Pilot Describes His Experiences in Convict Revolt

(The following was written for The Associated Press by Capt. Manuel Conde, Philippine air lines pilot who flew to Manila with the first report of the seizure by 45 escaped convicts of the city of Calapan, capital of Mindoro island).

By CAPT. MANUEL CONDE
Associated Press Writer

MANILA, July 2—I landed my plane at Calapan at 11:15 a. m (local time) suspecting nothing until I noticed our employes were absent from the airstrip.

Soon one heavily armed man in a military police uniform boarded the plane and said his superior officer, a Lieutenant Romera, wanted me and my co-pilot to appear before him. He said it was an urgent order.

I accompanied the soldier, who presented me to Romero. Romero said he did not want the plane to leave Calapan, and that I should consider myself his prisoner.

Romero said his men had captured the town and "the governor, the municipal mayor and the chief of police are my prisoners in the Casablanca hotel in the center of the city."

Romero added: "I control land, sea and air communications now and there is no way for a message to get outside for help."

I noticed several townspeople held in the prisoner stockade near the MP barracks where Romero had his quarters. There were three girls among them, all terror-stricken. Guarding the stockade were men in the uniform of military police, all armed.

I learned later that the jailbreakers had stripped the captured MP's of their uniforms and used them

A few minutes later I heard rifle shots followed by a heavy exchange of gunfire I dropped flat on the floor and after 45 minutes the firing ceased. Romero was killed by bullets in the head and stomach. I don't know exactly now many more were killed.

His men retreated into town about a mile and a half from the MP barracks, which adjoin the airstrip. I found that MPs from neighboring towns had arrived to recapture the airstrip and barracks where the jailbreakers had entrenched themselves. The airstrip is a mile and a half from the center of the town.

I was asked to fly to Manila immediately to report to general headquarters of the military police corps and get reinforcements to help recapture the town.

Upon landing at the airpoprt here I made my report to Brig. Gen. Mariano Castaneda, chief of the military police command.

PREDICT COAL STRIKE TRUCE

Operators Believe Pact Favorable to Lewis Will Be Reached in Time.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2 -Powerful soft coal operators predicted today that an agreement will be reached with John L Lewis in time to avert an all-out strike next Tuesday in the bituminous industry

The operators said the United Mine Workers' chief already has been assured by influential industrialists that his soft coal diggers in northern and western pits will get their full 35 cents an hour wage hike demands

The concessions were made at a secret meeting last Thursday attended by Lewis, President Benjamin F Fairless of the U S Steel Corporation, Chairman George M Humphrey of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, and other northern producers

The industry spokesmen who confirmed this meeting said western operators agreed to the wage pledge

Southerners Hold Bag

This left southern mines which produce about 25 per cent of the nation's soft coal faced with the prospect of capitulating on the same terms or seeing their pits closed when the miners' 10-day vacation ends next Tuesday.

With no contract yet signed, however, both Senator Taft (Ohio) and Rep Hartley (NJ), Republican authors of the new labor act, called last night for President Truman to invoke the provisions of that law.

Taft, saying that now is the time to face the coal problem, added that if a mine shutdown develops the President should act at once to appoint a board of inquiry—the first step in an 80-day strike-delay program contemplated by the law.

Hartley, in a New York address, saw no reason to wait for a strike to occur He declared the Chief Executive should act at once in setting up the inquiry board, to be

LATE AUTUMN CHIEF OHIO FARMER'S HOPE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 2—An unusually late and favorable autumn seemed today to be the chief hope of central Ohio farmers to salvage their 1947 corn crop.

With a second week of improved weather, permitting continued belated planting, only corn remained the big question mark in the weekly report of the U. S. weather bureau here.

U. S. Meteorologist George Mindling reported that central Ohio corn still was mostly less than a foot high and in many fields, just coming up. He said that corn that wouldn't be knee-high by July 4 probably would go into silage.

Farm observers at Ohio State university and the U. S. bureau of agricultural economics don't expect to have an accurate corn appraisal before July 10, however. Acreages in some sections were 10 to 40 per cent less than farmers had intended to plant before the recent spring rains.

Mindling's report noted the rapid advance of wheat which has begun "to color a little as far north as Lima and Ashland, while in southern counties some is ready to harvest." Mindling said that some reports of damaged wheat, by scab, had come from Dayton.

The soybean fields, where planting is about finished in the southern and central sections, ranged from "just coming up to three or four inches high," the report added.

Tomato planting—for canning in northwest Ohio is almost completed.

Oats "are headed but are still quite green" with many having unusually short straws, Mindling said.

Large crops of tree fruits are indicated for at least the northern half of the state in spite of severe spring frosts, based on scanty reports now available, the meteorologist concluded.

Britain And France May Go On Alone

By The Associated Press

PARIS, July 2—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov turned down today British-French proposal for European recovery under the Marshall program, and apparently ended the conference of the three foreign ministers on the subject of American aid to Europe.

Molotov said the British-French proposals "would lead to no good results" and warned both western nations that their action would lead to a division of Europe

A high Soviet official said this session was the end of the conference which found Russia in complete disagreement with Britain and France

Molotov left the meeting about five minutes before British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault accompanied him to the door of the foreign ministry, shook hands, and went back upstairs to confer with Bevin

Announcement Expected

The French and British ministers, preceded by a Scotland Yard man, came down together from the Hall of Parrots, where the conference had been held. It was reported that a joint French British announcement would be issued

Molotov, opening today's session, made a five-page statement criticizing the British-French proposals as a threat to the economic independence and sovereignty of the small European nations

"Under these conditions," Molotov said of the proposals, "how would the small countries and in general the less powerful states be able to safeguard their national economies and their independence"

"The Soviet government certainly cannot venture along this path and continue to support its proposals put forward at this conference on June 30.

"Can't Lend Support"

"The Soviet government, while favoring the development of international collaboration on the basis of equal rights and mutual respect for the interests of the contracting parties, cannot lend its assistance to anyone in arranging his affairs at the expense of other countries of less strength or size. This has nothing in common with normal cooperation between states.

"The Soviet government considers that the Anglo-French plan to set up a special organization for the coordination of the economies of European states would lead to interference in the internal affairs of European countries

"The Soviet government rejects this plan as being altogether unsatisfactory and incapable of yielding any positive results."

Anzalis Reich Proposals

Molotov assailed those parts of the British-French proposals which dealt with Germany as tending to take away the "justified reparations" claims of those Allied countries which suffered from German aggression.

The compromise under discussion was offered yesterday by Bidault in an effort to keep the conference alive. The conference was called after U. S. Secretary of State Marshall had suggested that European nations should agree among themselves on a plan for European reconstruction for which the United States would consider granting aid.

Before today's session—the fifth of the conference—convened both Britain and France reportedly were ready to go ahead with Marshall's suggestion in the event Russia rejected the compromise. Marshall made his proposal in a Harvard university speech June 5.

U.S. Has "No Plans" If Conference Fails

By The Associated Press

GENEVA, July 2—U. S. Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton, said today that "so far as I know the United States is taking no steps" if the three-power conference in Paris breaks up without agreement of the Marshall aid-for-Europe plan.

Clayton, who conferred with top British officials on the Marshall plan in London before coming here, told a news conference that his government was "waiting for Europe to take action" on the American proposals.

Clayton heads two delegations in Geneva. One is the 15-nation economic commission including the U. S. and Russia. The other is the international trade conference of 18 nations, not including Russia, which is attempting to form an international trade organization, write a world trade charter and conclude a multilateral agreement for reductions of tariffs and other trade barriers.

Questions and Answers On New Rent Law

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Questions and answers on the new rent law:

Q. What does the law do?

A. Extends rent control—which would have died Tuesday—through Feb. 29, 1948 allows a 15 per cent voluntary rent boost in exchange for leases running through 1948. Ends most controls on building.

Q. Can my landlord now automatically raise my rent immediately without my consent?

A. Absolutely not. Rent ceilings generally remain at the same level. Landlords still have to get approval of the area rent director for an increase. Permanent accommodations in hotels, motor courts and tourists houses can be decontrolled immediately on application of the owners.

Q. Is the voluntary 15 per cent rent increase really voluntary, or can my landlord make me sign it?

A. Don't sign unless you want to. It must be voluntary to be legal. By the same token, your landlord does not have to offer you such arrangement.

Q. Why should I sign it?

A. The advantage is that you get in turn a lease at the new higher rate running through 1948. This protects you for that long against possible bigger boosts after rent ceilings expire on March 1.

Q. How about the disadvantages?

A. You pay 15 per cent more rent between now and March 1. If for some reason you move to a new dwelling, you would lose the benefits of the long lease.

Q. Mr. Truman said rent control has been "irreparably weakened" by the new law. How is this?

A. The principal weakening factor is curtailment of federal enforcement powers. Generally the tenant now must enforce his rights himself, taking his case to local courts. Area rent offices will give him advice.

Q. Can I be evicted?

A. Not if you pay your rent and behave. Only for specific reasons—generally the same as before—can your landlord evict you. It is true, though, that it is now up to you to enforce your rights. Ask the rent office. Then, if you think your landlord is not following the rules, go to a local court. The housing expediter says you are in no more danger of unfair eviction now than before.

Q. What can I do if my landlord overcharges me?

A. Check with your rent office, to make sure of the ceiling. Then go to court. You can collect up to three times the overcharge, plus attorney's fees.

Q. Will the new local rent boards change my situation?

A. Most likely not. Each rent control area will get a local rent board, to be nominated by state governor and appointed by the housing expediter. The board can make recommendations for adjustments either in individual rents or in the general rent level. The expediter, as before, has the final word. Under the law he will reject any unwarranted proposals.

Q. My apartment was completed just last month. Is my rent freed from ceilings under the provision ending rent controls on new constructions?

A. No. The expediter has ruled that decontrol of priority-built property completed since Feb. 1 does not apply as long as present tenants remain. Once you move out, the apartment is ceiling free. The next tenant could be charged anything the landlord desired.

Q. Now that most building controls are removed, can I build night club or bowling alley?

A. Construction for amusement or recreation still requires a federal permit, and permits usually are not granted for such things. No other construction now requires a permit.

Q. I have planned a new $50,000 home but heretofore was not allowed to build it. Can I start work now?

A. Get going.

One Out of Three Employes Has Idea To Improve C. and O.

Special to The Star

CLEVELAND, July 2—Management of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway company has received ideas for improving service and operations from one out of every three of the company's 30,000 employes, Kenneth M. Robertson, manager of the C. and O.'s suggestion system, said today.

Tapping the experience and knowledge of the company's employes, from the track laborers to supervisory personnel, the suggestion system has received a total of 9,753 suggestions in the first four months of its operation.

This is at the rate of one suggestion per year from each employe, Robertson pointed out.

The suggestion system operates to the mutual benefit of the company and the workers. Employes are given cash awards for practical ideas that are adopted, with the amount dependant upon the value of the suggestion. The company benefits through savings in time, effort and money effected by the workable suggestions.

Inaugurated in mid-February, the suggestion system paid a total of $8,700 for 539 suggestions in the four months ended June 14.

There have been two awards of $150 each, highest paid to date. One of these went to E. E. Guinn, a machinist in the mechanical department of the C. and O.'s Huntington, W. Va., shop, and the other to Fred Plymale, a yard conductor, also of Huntington.

Guinn's award-winning suggestion proposed that imperfectations be machined from the guide yoke foot—a part of the driving mechanism—on a certain type of locomotive, instead of being ground down. The idea result in a savings of more than 22 hours of labor, or approximately $60, per engine.

Plymale's award was made for his suggestion that a storage track be built at the Kere Glass Company plant at Huntington, effecting a saving in time required for switching cars in and out of the plant's grounds.

Based on Efficiency

Awards are based on the increased efficiency and economy resulting from the suggestions, with a minimum award of $10 for any idea accepted. Many suggestions pertain to the convenience and comfort of C. and O. train passengers and employes. For example, a clerk in the Richmond, Va., offices became annoyed when, his hands filled with office papers, he had difficulty in opening a door between two offices. He suggested that a swinging door be installed, and received an award for it.

The suggestion system, according to C. and O. President Robert J. Bowman, is based on the promise that "every employe, through his experience and observation on the job, has an opportunity to think of better ways of doing things and in most cases knows more about his particular job than anyone else."

Under the system, suggestion forms are provided for employes in every shop, office and division of the railroad. Local suggestion system committees screen the ideas submitted, decide on awards for practical suggestions, then forward their recommendations to the general suggestion system committee. The general committee makes final decisions on the acceptability of suggestions and fixes the awards.

Boyle Finds Cigar Longer Than U. S. is Wide

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, July 2—The trouble with this country is that you can't smoke a cigar while flying from one end of it to the other. And I don't know the definition of the fair age [illegible] year in Los Angeles

Hal Boyle

[illegible] the plane. For some reason airplane companies will [illegible] you to smoke a cigaret [illegible] turn thumbs down on [illegible] Some passengers are [illegible]

Since the cheroot I had been fumigating the landscape with was a mellow—22 cent Havana, I wasn't going to give up the last 16 cents worth without a struggle.

Calls Mother In K. C.

We stopped first at Kansas City. I called up my mother and found the wet spring there is still raising the devil with her Irish rheumatism.

"A friend of mine with about the same complaint went out west to cure it and died," she said with her usual optimism, "So I am coming east to visit you this August. It may be safer." That's my mom.

The plane was there only a few minutes collecting fuel, but I managed to smoke the cigar down to about a 12-cent level. Then I had to rub it out again and climb aboard.

We flew on across the rampaging "big muddy" Missouri river—one the government hasn't got around to taming — and came down a little more than an hour later at St. Louis, where the conjoined Missouri and Mississippi river are having their biggest spree in 103 years.

Down to 5 Cents

I puffed the cigar down to about eight cents worth and we flew on. We could look down on all the terrible watery devastation that has cost thousands of farmers a year's fruitless labor. To us in the air it was only brown flooded land—but to those below it was the heartache of drowned crops, destroyed livestock, ruined homes.

We soared over highways and rail lines cut by the terrible power of tremendous backed-up rains, and they had no power to hold or halt us. We flew unhindered through a lightning storm that hurt us not at all, but poured fresh death and terror on those below who live by land.

Among our 40 passengers were a mother and her diaper-stage baby and a man so old he had to be helped in and out of his seat. We came into New York through a mist like an artillery shell on a perfect target.

Embarrasses Son

The old man was led down the steep alighting platform to a middle-aged spectacled son who looked embarrassed when the father reached out a tremendous hand to him and said:

"Dickie boy!"

I was still working out the last third of my cigar—first lit at Los Angeles—when I bumped into an acquaintance who said:

"I haven't been in a plane since 1923. You must have been scared all the way."

Well, there's America. And the modern world. The planes may fall or the trains go off the rail. But if you stay in one place the earth still shakes, too, and the rivers rise and overflow. You can't hide from life or danger any more. The twentieth century made pioneers of everybody.

So this is what I wrote finishing the five-cent stub of the cigar I started a continent and twelve hours away.

NO JEALOUSY HERE. Screen debut of 15-month-old Liza Minnelli is a family affair. She plays supporting role to her mother, Actress Judy Garland, while Daddy Vincente Minnelli directs.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Wound May Be Serious

Nobody likes to make a fuss about nothing and somehow or other for most people a wound of the hand seems to fall into this category. Unless there is a great deal of bleeding at the time of the injury or a bad infection later on, we feel the matter scarcely merits the attention of the doctor. Quite the reverse is true.

A wound which seems trivial at first may have serious consequence for the reason that, on the hand, nerves, tendons and other important structures lie close to the surface. If one of these is severed, use of the hand may be lost unless given prompt attention.

According to Dr. John E. Kirkpatrick of San Francisco, when the injured patient is first seen, the wound is protected from further infection with a dry, sterile dressing. This is bandaged in place to help control bleeding. When the bleeding has been controlled, the physician makes a careful study to determine just what structures have been injured.

It may be necessary to take an X-ray to see if any bones have been broken. The skin is examined to see if there is any loss of sensation due to nerve injuries. Then, too, it is important to find out if any of the tendons which connect muscle to bone have been cut. Once a physician has determined the extent of the tissue damage, the patient is taken to the operating room, given an anesthetic to put him to sleep, and the wound is repaired.

In doing this, the skin around the wound is cleaned first with soap and sterile water. Then the wound itself is cleansed and finally washed out with a warm, sterile salt solution. Here again, some physicians prefer using antiseptics.

Next, all dead tissue is cut away, and the injured structures are repaired. This may mean sewing the cut ends of tendons or nerves together.

After the repair is completed and the skin sewed up, the wound is covered with sterile gauze which has first been soaked in a mild ointment such as sterile petrolatum.

In some cases, it may be necessary to apply a plaster cast to keep the fingers in the proper position, which will relax the injured nerves and tendons while they are healing.

Hand injuries should never be neglected because they may lead to permanent incapacity.

800 Veterans Apply For Special Housing at O.S.U.

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 2—The Ohio State university GI dormitory project to open this fall has residence applications from more than 800 veterans.

About 150 married student veterans and their families were accepted and 48 placed on the waiting list. Of the 800 applicants, 330 had families of one or more children.

The buildings which the veterans will occupy were originally one and two-story army barracks at Camp Davis, N. C., and were made available by the federal housing administration.

EGG ON WHOLE SHELL

By International News Service

NEW YORK—Soon you'll be eating the whole egg, even the shell, states The American Magazine. In order to boost the calcium load of eggs, says the magazine, government food chemists are grinding them so fine (they can pass through holes 0.0015 of an inch) that, added to dried egg, you'll never detect them in pies, cakes, or custards.

Upper Sanduskian To Quit Post After 45 Years of Service

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 2—Percy L. Hale, last of the original group of rural mail carriers from the Upper Sandusky postoffice and one of only three in the United States who have been on the routes for 45 years or longer, was retired Tuesday after making his final run last Wednesday.

Rural free delivery was instituted from the postoffice here in April, 1900. Mr. Hale in the past 47 years has made more than 4,700 trips around route one and has traveled more than enough miles to circle the earth at the equator 20 times.

The original route one, northeast and east of town, was 24½ miles long. Additions through the years increased the mileage, and for the past 14 years it has been 58 daily miles.

Mr. Hale formerly used a horse and buggy, or two-wheeled cart in the muddy times, until 1919 when he purchased a Model T. Since then he has used up 10 automobiles.

Robert A. Shafer, formerly clerk in the Upper Sandusky postoffice, began his duties as carrier on route one Thursday morning. Mr. Hale, who celebrated his seventieth birthday Friday, says retirement will give him an opportunity to catch up with work in his garden.

DEPUTY QUITS

Mr. Truman Could Be Wrong

IF MR. TRUMAN'S worst fears are realized, his approval of the housing and rent act of 1947 will cause mass evictions and a complete collapse of housing construction.

In his message on this matter, as in his message on the management-labor relations, the President has chosen to look on the dark side where there is no hope for salvation, unless everything is done his way. It appears that everybody in the United States is out of step except Harry Truman, the advisers steering White House policy, and the labor union lawyers who steer the steerers.

Mr. Truman could be wrong.

Landlords could temper their rents to the shorn lambs. The construction industry, the building trades and the capital sources that provide the wherewithal could prove that the United States doesn't need to depend on Washington for leadership in a housing crisis.

The mass evictions that might occur if landlords went berserk under the new law, which turns back eviction procedure to the states, taking the federal government out of the picture, needn't occur at all. The distortion of construction that might occur if the people involved want to prevent it needn't occur either.

When Mr. Truman says they will occur he is voicing the conviction of an element in this country that says no one can be trusted, except a handful of people whose habitat begins a few miles beyond the left of center in politics. These people owe their existence to the excesses of a private enterprise system cursed with a minority of members who never fail to substantiate the worst fears of their critics.

Mr. Truman could be wrong about the new housing law. It all depends on the people he expects to prove he is right. They can make him look good or bad; it's up to them.

Japan Wants No Territory

TETSU KATAYAMA, Socialist premier of Japan, is quoted by The Associated Press as telling the diet his country will make no demands for territory at the peace conference. This is supposed to take care of an impression that Japan was going to ask for Okinawa, among other islands.

It doesn't quite take care of an impression that Japan is rallying from the disgrace of defeat in a most amazing manner. To comprehend items of politics such as a Japanese premier laying down broad policy in a speech to legislators, it is necessary to go back two short years.

The United States was bombing Japan into submission from the air. The Japanese navy had been driven into hiding. The sea approaches were clear for the greatest invasion of history. The United States was determined to beat Japan so thoroughly it never would have another chance to betray its friends.

In July, 1947, the military occupation of Japan is acclaimed as successful. The Japanese are cooperative, even friendly. They apparently don't hold it against the United States for launching atomic warfare at their expense. They have recovered their self-respect, though they have no pressing territorial ambitions at this time.

Is it too much to hope, mildly, that the Japanese haven't forgotten Pearl Harbor so completely they may start dreaming of how much dandier things may be the next time?

The Slave States

ONE aim of the President's veto of the Taft-Hartley bill was to destroy Henry Wallace's third-party threat. It was a move to steal Wallace's "thunder on the left."

This strategy could be justified by only one assumption: that the solid South, which didn't like the veto, would do nothing about it. Mr. Truman could count on the slave states; i.e., the states held in bondage by Democratic national headquarters.

Another way of saying this is that no matter how hard national leadership kicks southern Democrats in the teeth they will come back for more, because they have no place else to go under their one-party system.

The threat of a third party led by Wallace gives Democratic strategists political conniption fits, but no one ever worries about the possibility of a fourth party led by a southern conservative. The idea is preposterous, or is it?

A fourth party would be futile, like a third party. It would be political spitework, also like a third party. It couldn't get on the ballot in most states, but neither could a third party. All it could accomplish would be the defeat of politicians riding roughshod over a party minority.

What would happen, one wonders—what desperate expedients would be contrived—to hold Harry Byrd or Senator George in line if they confronted Democratic headquarters with the same kind of threat being made by Henry Wallace? Would Democratic headquarters really be sure that the solid South's support could be taken for granted in that event.

Economic Talks Caught in Cross Fire at Start.

WASHINGTON, July 2 — The meeting of the furtive but not particularly big three in Paris was caught in a criss-cross of undertows at the start. One was the Russian notion that if you feed a person you own him as a vassal. Pravda spoke beforehand of the repugnance to Russia of the United States gaining any sovereignty from aiding Europe beyond the $16,000,000,000 we have already poured therein without gaining any sovereignty. Of course, we particularly do not want sovereignty over those nations. We want fair and just relations based on true democracy which means independence for those nations — self-sovereignty, the opposite of absorption.

But Russia does not want sovereignty. That is the way she goes about things. She installs local Communist officials as the Nazis did, abolishes any other sovereignty except Communism (Russianism) and as she arbitrarily keeps the people subject to her Moscow-elected totalitarian regime, she does not have to feed them. She takes from them and

The peculiar Moscow resistance to the restoration of Europe—further emphasized by the Tass text radioed June 29—led to the published, official, but anonymous assertions that the Russians may have come into the conference to see that it did not get too far.

The second undertow, working against this one, was the enthusiasm of France and Britain at the prospect of getting some more money (dollar credits) for their problems. What State Secretary Marshall had in mind before the conference was a loan from the international bank to restore productivity of the Ruhr. Before he said anything aloud Marshall privately called in John J. McCloy, World Bank head, and talked Ruhr loan last week. Coal and steel production there is down to practically nothing under the German private management and British control. The German management says it needs machinery, but it is well known the men will not work, possibly in part due to the paucity of British rations against which they recently struck. We do not wish to internationalize the Ruhr (French idea). We only want to get the Germans, who have the know-how, started producing. Marshall apparently thought a bank loan would do it. (We furnish most of that money, 41 per cent so far of subscription, while Russia withdrew and contributed nothing.)

Self-Help Opposed

This looks off hand like a German self-help labor problem, as much as or more than machinery. The facts certainly justify the Marshall stand for primary insistence upon Europe doing something for itself.

Few remember the Dawes loan which restored Ruhr industries after the last war, giving them just about enough money to pay their reparations. This time the French interest, of course, is coal for which she has been paying $20 to $22 a ton abroad while getting only a trickle from the Ruhr, which should be her main source of supply. The British interest is to cut her costs of economic occupation. Our deal with her to free the occupied zones to economic exchange has just about been completed, but not yet put into full operation. The fact that unification is about ready for full swing should aid the Ruhr promotion notion, on a claim beyond Russia's ability to sabotage.

But no one in government can forget it is now two years since the Russians agreed to unify German economics. That agreement impeded unification so successfully we had to go ahead belatedly without Russia, when we saw she did not mean it. Consequently our officials have looked at the meeting rather quizzically, want to read the agreements twice, furnished the idea for it, and a prospect of money from the bank as well.

They were prepared from the beginning to help Britain and France to take independent action.

It's the Thought Rather Than the Salami

Citizens of Greece are reported sending relief shipments of meat to the U. S. in the belief that thousands here are starving.

Apparently John L. Lewis' annual pre-negotiations lament of economic conditions among the mine workers has been publicized abroad.

So far as I have been able to determine, the only people starving in this country are those on diets unless, that is, you believe the National Association of Real Estate board's testimony ament the plight of the landlord.

Still, it is good to know that at least some of those we have helped are possessed of a willingness to reciprocate as well as the ability to appreciate. I had begun to think the quality of mercy a one-way street.

To the victor belongs the spoils along with the obligation of feeding the vanquished. As a consequence, hams across the sea have become the recognized symbol of world brotherhood and the U. S. has changed from the arsenal of democracy to the smokehouse of the universe.

The Greeks have been feeding America for a long time at the sign of the Busy Bee. This latest manifestation is a welcome assurance that bread cast upon the water does return at least an occasional crumb of gratitude.

Besides, who is there to say these gift shipments of meat aren't needed, prices being what they are down at the butcher shop? there is nothing they, as subjects, can do except resist in subtle little ways where they cannot get caught—and this they are doing.

7,300,000 Kids for Lunch

By JANE EADS

MORE than 7,300,000 American children had a hot noon-day meal with sweet milk for a dime or less every school day last year under the National School Lunch Act.

The law was passed in 1946 to assist the states through grants-in-aid and other means in providing an adequate supply of foods and other facilities for operation of nonprofit school lunch programs.

Last year congress appropriated $75,000,000 for this purpose and voted an additional $6,000,000 deficiency appropriation later when the states ran short of funds.

The Department of Agriculture, which administers the program, asked $75,000,000 for 1948. The House agreed on $45,000,000.

Advocates of the school lunch program declared its benefits are two-fold: Children getting better meals today grow up to be healthier citizens tomorrow. They develop good food habits which carry them through later years. The program also provides outlets for food production.

The Department of Agriculture points out that one of the problems facing the nation today is not how to produce food, but how to sell what is produced.

When the department is obligated to purchase potatoes under the government's price support program, for example, it has to find a way to make use of the potatoes. Of the 479,609,000 bushels of potatoes grown last year, some had to be plowed under, some were converted to alcohol and thousands of bushels were left to rot.

Under the school lunch program the department distributes 2,000,000 bushels annually to public and parochial schools.

The schools—there were 50,000 of them last year—can claim reimbursements from the government for purchases of food and equipment, if requirements of the act are met.

States have the primary responsibility for developing their own programs, with state departments of education administering the program in most instances.

For every dollar of federal funds allotted, the law requires the state to spend a dollar. In matching the grants, food and labor supplied by the schools may be counted. Also, states in which the average income is lower than the national average can pay less than the federal share.

Oh, Rats— A Cat Can Eat

By The Associated Press

—AUCKLAND, New Zealand—"Working" cats in New Zealand are entitled to a meat ration under a little known regulation in force here. Some butchers recently invoked the regulations which allot a "working" cat two shillings (32 cents U.S.) worth of meat every four weeks, slightly less than that allowed for children. To qualify, a cat must be kept in a food warehouse or a shop to kill rats and mice. The regulation states bluntly the ration is not for household cats.

With or Without Russia

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, July 2 — Our people, following by press and radio the Paris conference of European Foreign Ministers, hear over the airways equivalents of familiar headlines: "Molotov objects," or "Molotov obstructs" or "Russia vetoes."

We know the purpose of the conference, to lay out a program of cooperation by European countries for economic recovery. We know that our government has made a promise — after Europe has taken steps in cooperation for self-help. America will contribute needed funds and goods.

We grasp the ultimate purpose, the recovery of the world. And we wonder. Will this conference at Paris succeed in agreeing upon cooperation? Or will it come to the same end as a score of other postwar conferences, disagreement and futility?

It can be said at once that this conference, and the whole of the "Marshall plan" in which this is a step, is more likely to bear fruit than past attempts at agreement. The reason lies in one sentence in the speech, now recognized as a postwar milestone, in which Secretary Marshall laid out the plan. The pregnant sentence is: "The program should be a joint one, agreed to by a number of, if not all, the European nations.

Diplomatic Gentleness

Within that sentence the significant words are "if not all." Superficially those words and the sentence as a whole may seem cryptic. But that is because Secretary Marshall, like other responsible heads of government, is constrained to practice diplomatic gentleness. Well informed persons who are not in responsible positions, and are therefore permitted to be frank, infer that Secretary Marshall was talking about Russia and to Russia. "If not all" means "if not Russia." Sense of propriety deters the secretary of state from saying, or even seeming to assent to, what many in Washington feel: what, for example, Senator Fulbright, of Arkansas, said the other day—that he was "suspicious" of Russia's motive as respects this conference, that he thinks Russia has "the desire to embarrass the United States."

If the American attitude about the Marshall plan and Russia's relation to it were put in words that reflect our public opinion and almost certainly our official intention, the words would be something like this: "We hope that Russia will cooperate in the plan, we shall hold the door open for her to do so, but we doubt that she will, and, in any event, with Russia or without Russia, the plan will go forward."

As respects ourselves, the plan will go forward because we have arrived at a settled determination. We have decided to cease putting our aid to Europe in the form of piecemeal charity. We shall continue the aid because we must, we cannot see European peoples starve. But we shave determined to give the aid, not as dole, but in a way that will contribute to self-help and recovery. To this end we have told the European nations that they should take the initiative in the form of cooperative self-help, which presumably will include reduction of trade barriers between European nations. It is this initiative and cooperation that is now being attempted at Paris.

And End to Inaction

As respects Great Britain and France, which with Russia compose the conference at Paris, likelihood of the Marshall plans going forward is assured by the enthusiasm they have for it, especially Britain. Foreign Secretary Bevin has spoken of the Marshall plan in terms of almost ecstatic approval.

It is a question whether the Marshall plan would be best furthered with Russia in it or Russia out of it. Russian cooperation would help greatly, if it were wholehearted and single-minded. But in a score of attempts at postwar cooperation the Russian representatives have practiced obstruction and delay. The opportunity for such tactics in attempted cooperation for economic recovery under the Marshall plan would be as numerous as Russian ingenuity in making use of them. The conviction has come to many, and some have expressed it bluntly, that Russia has a motive for not wishing the recovery of Europe, that continuance of economic paralysis in Europe serves Russia's interests.

Not only as respects the Marshall plan but in the whole field of efforts toward recovery and peace, America has come to feel what ex-President Hoover put in these words. Stressing the terrible need for peace, and recovery, and summarizing obstructions practiced by Russia, Mr. Hoover said: "We should wait no longer."

June Bride and Groom, 1947 Model

Bride—Well, dear, now that we're happily married where do we live?

Groom—Can't we go to your house temporarily?

Bride—Not a chance. My room was allotted to a needy applicant the minute I left for the church. How about your home?

Groom—There was a waiting list for the vacancy when I moved out.

Bride—I thought you had a relative in the tent business.

Groom—I did but he had orders for tents two years in advance. Didn't you tell me you knew where you could get a trailer?

Bride—Would you like to live in a trailer?

Groom—Darling, in times like these I would live under one. It must have been wonderful to get married in the days of mom and pop. They started housekeeping indoors at once.

Bride—It seems impossible. I wish you were more of a pioneer.

Groom—Why?

Bride—You could hew a home out of the forest.

Groom—Who do we know who has an ax?

Bride—Who do we know who has a forest?

Groom—What would you say to a cave?

Bride—Love conquers all. A cave might not be bad if not too far out of town. Know where there is one available?

Groom—Yes, but I think you have to be a veteran to get one.

Bride (wistfully).—We've got to find some place to start housekeeping, even if it is just an old windmill.

Groom—Don't be silly. All the old windmills have been spoken for.

* * *

Bride—How about an abandoned barn?

Groom—You're taking a chance there. Just as we got settled the horses and cows might come back.

Bride—I have it . a haunted rookery!

Groom—I thought of that and put in an application. The agency said it would let me know as soon as the present occupant gets scared out.

* * *

Bride—I wish I had married Gregory Whipple. He had an old piano box.

Groom—But he had only made the down payment and had nothing left for furniture.

Bride—We're worrying too much. Where do we go on our honeymoon?

Groom—Honeymoon! Do you think I'm a millionaire?

Bride—I've a little surprise. My dad gave us a check for $5,000 for a wedding present.

Groom—Good. That will solve our food problem for a week or two anyhow.

Bride—If we're careful, you mean!

Marine Life

By TRUMAN TWILL

Swimming has been out of our line since a life guard led us out of three feet of water during the Wilson administration, slapped us until the blue color went away and sent us back to the bathhouse.

Those were the days when the sight of a female leg above the knee brought hot flushes to the cheeks of law-abiding males, whose own costumes for the beach resembled snug suits of winter underwear dyed a dark color and chopped off at the extremities.

Those were the days when the ah, er, midriff was mentioned apologetically, if at all, and a man caught with nothing on but his shorts felt an explanation was in order—a darned good one and quick, too.

Rowdy-dows feeling the impulse to admire the female figger made pilgrimages to burlesque shows, where they paid good money to see considerably less of it than they now can see for nothing by going swimming.

The height of daring was attained by boys who trudged miles into the country until they reached a swimming hole far from the madding crowd where skinny-dipping wouldn't offend anybody. The same kids, grown up, now are accustomed to see what amounts to skinny-dipping in mixed company without batting an eye.

As we hinted at the beginning, all we know about this is what we see in the ads and the store windows. The real thing is for hardy souls who don't shiver in the water, or blush on the beaches. There was the wax model in the store window this morning, for instance...pardon me, lady, I forgot to knock.

As an admirer of store-window dummies it never had occurred to us to wonder about the midriffs before. We figured that only the parts in plain sight like the face and arms would look real. Perhaps this was a special dummy, designed especially for displaying bathing suits. But pardon us again.

Everything has come a long way since Woodrow Wilson's day, and a fellow owes it to himself to keep track of the distance. Except that the one swimming suit, provided it could be found and the moths hadn't eaten it, would look funny and would be six or eight sizes too small besides.

But skip it. We don't want to go swimming, just spend an hour at one of the better beaches to check on the shape of things as they are as editorial writers say.

We'll go incognito, in a long bathrobe and turban, like a swami, because if the shape of things as they are is what it seems to be in the ads and the store windows the old boy in the bathrobe and turban will want to make a scientific study. Visiting Hindu say velly pitty gul come littlee closely so'm felah can see what gives, chop, chop, wow!

Violet Lights Take Bugs Out of Lifts

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The 1947-model elevator has rubber tires and ultra-violet lights. The rubber tires are for noiselessness on the guide rails and the ultra-violet rays are to take the bugs out of the cabs.

The lights are concealed in baffles at the tops of the cars and diffuse an indirect light designed to prevent passengers from getting sunburned.

Eight of the new elevators have been installed in a new 22-story building on Park Avenue. The installation involved $400,000 according to the Otis Elevator Co.

The custom-built steel cabs are equipped with center opening doors which are estimated to save half a second every time they are opened or closed.

Uniform Air Controls Seen

Safety Board To Decree Lines Standardize All Cockpits.

WASHINGTON, July 2 — Top aviation circles predicted yesterday that one certain result of President Truman's new safety board will call for uniformity in transport plane cockpits.

Uniformity of cockpits, even in planes of the same model, has been a headache of pilots, and always been a source of danger.

It definitely led to some crashes—as in the case of the Royal Dutch Airline pilot who pulled what he thought to be the flap retraction lever and collapsed the landing gear while the plane was still slowing down from its landing.

In this case, the plane was a Lockheed Constellation, and the pilot was familiar with the Douglas DC-4.

Cab Chief James M. Landis, chairman of the safety board, is fully familiar with this problem.

In the civil aeronautics board hearing on the fatal crash off a United Airlines DC-4 at LaGuardia field last month, Landis heard pilot Benton C. Baldwin testify it took him 10 minutes to familiarize himself with different cockpits.

Baldwin said that shortly before the accident he had flown a Douglas DC-6, a DC-4 leased from another airline, and the plane that crashed. All the cockpits, instruments and controls were different. In the case of the two DC-4's, they were different because the ships were converted from army C-54's by different manufacturers.

A cab official who heard Baldwin's testimony pointed out that while the safety factor was much less important on the ground, the automobile manufacturers had standardized driving years ago.

Today any driver can drive any car, but old timers remember when a driver had to be familiar with the standard gearshift, the Buick shift, the Dodge shift, and the planetary transmission on the Model-T Ford.

The airplane makers have not standardized, and the board is going to do it for them, although there undoubtedly will be much protest from the manufacturers and airplines, each of whom thinks his cockpit the best.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect such irritation and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, dizziness, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Detective Story Reader Ends Fugitive's Freedom

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, N. J., July 2—An acquaintance who read detective story magazines brought to an end the two-year period of freedom and respectability which 46-year-old Louis Pelay enjoyed since he disappeared from Canton, O., while waiting trial on a rape charge, New Jersey FBI Chief S. K. McKee announced last night.

Pelay, remanded now in the Hudson county jail to await return to Ohio, was arrested by the FBI after what McKee described as two years as a "model citizen" here in Newark. McKee said the man was charged now with having jumped bail in Canton in 1945.

Pelay, a bachelor, came to Newark and found work as an electrician under the alias of George Pappus, McKee said. He kept mainly to himself in his furnished room at 43 Fulton street where his landlady said he was an "ideal roomer."

However, an acquaintance who read detective story magazines noted Pelay's similarity to a fugitive pictured in one of the publications and notified the FBI. Agents arrested Pelay in the rooming house.

FINAL REPORT MADE ON CANCER DRIVE

$3,731 Raised in County for Campaign Against Disease.

The report was made at a meeting of the executive board of the Marion County Chapter of the American Cancer society Friday at Hotel Harding. At this time Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz took over her duties as chairman of the Marion county society, succeeding Mrs. H. K. Mouser.

It was announced that a new picture projector and screen had been purchased and also another film. A Weak, Run-Down Feeling Is Often A Warning

That The Red-Blood Is Getting Low

If you do not feel like your real self, do not have the urge to be up and doing, why not check-up on your blood strength? Look at the palms of your hands, your fingernails, your lips, the lobes of your ears—are they pale and off color?

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that S88 Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the S88 Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, S88 Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on S88 Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. S88 Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

At the Bruno home the mantel was decorated with greenery and foliage was caught to the stairway. Bouquets of pink carnations were on the mantel and in front of the fireplace were arrangements of white roses, gypsophila and carnations and lighted tapers. The table was in the livingroom. The centerpiece was a tiered wedding cake encircled with greenery and at either end were the punch bowls. Completing the table decorations were small bouquets of gypsophila and lighted tapers. Tables arranged on the lawn for the guests were laid with pink and green cloths carrying out the bride's colors. Assisting were Miss Elizabeth, Haberman Miss Maxine Dune, Miss Florence McKinney and Miss Martha Fabian, sorority sisters of the bride.

OHIO GRAVE DIGGERS' WALKOUT CONCLUDED

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 2—The 10-week-old strike of 63 grave diggers and maintenance men at the Lake View cemetery ended today when the union voted unanimously to accept a wage increase of four cents an hour.

A new contract was signed, effective immediately, guaranteeing 47 weeks work a year for full-time employes at the new rate. The contract expires Oct. 31, 1948.

The workers, members of the Cemetery, landscape and Nursery Workers Union (AFL), went on strike April 18 to support a demand for a 10 cents an hour increase over wages ranging from 92 cents to $1.02 an hour.

At the height of the strike, picketing was banned by an injunction issued by Common Pleas Judge Frank J. Merrick who said the "sacred rite" of burial was more important than the "legal right" to picket.

C. B. Gleason, executive vice president of the Cemetery association, said that about 42 of the 116 bodies whose burial was delayed by the strike were yet to be interred.

FRENCH SAY AIR FORCE CONSPIRACY SMASHED

Plan To Seize Warplanes Nipped by Leader's Arrest.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, July 2—National security police, continuing their investigation into a "Black Maquis" plot to overthrow the government, claimed today to have smashed a conspiracy to seize control of all of France's military airports and warplanes.

The information bureau of the police organization announced that Capt. Roger Prat of the French air force had been arrested in connection with the airport conspiracy and indicated that other members of the air force were involved.

Few details of the plan were revealed, but it apparently was part of the over-all program by which the Black Maquis"—described as a rightwing underground organization — reportedly had hoped to upset the republic and set up a form of military dictatorship.

The security police also announced the arrest of Claude Chauvel, 20-year-old son of the secretary-general of the foreign affairs ministry, in connection with their investigation and said a warrant had been issued for Count Aurouet De Merwels, whom they described as "one of the principal members" of the revolutionary group.

Composer Wagner's Kin Jailed for 450 Days

By The Associated Press

BAYREUTH, Germany, July 2—Frau Winifred Wagner, daughter-in-law of the musician, Richard Wagner, was sentenced to 450 days of special labor service today following her conviction on charges of actively supporting the Hitler regime.

The sentence was imposed on the 50-year-old English born defendant by a German denazification court, which also ordered confiscation of 60 per cent of her personal wealth, estimated at 230,000 marks ($23,000).

The prosecution had urged that Frau Wagner—widow of Siegfried Wagner—be sentenced to six years in a labor camp.

Dancing Date with Star Awaits Girl Who "Would Never Walk."

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, July 2—A 14-year-old girl doctors said would never walk has taken her first dancing lesson—despite casts on her legs.

Eunice Klnzer didn't jitterbug but she carefully followed the teacher's instructions in anticipation of a promised date with film actor Victor Mature.

The plucky girl was bedfast as a result of a brain tumor three years ago. She underwent a series of brain operations and slowly learned to walk again.

Mature visited Eunice as she recovered from her last operation and promised her a trip to Hollywood when she was well again.

"Gee whiz," says Eunice as she danced, "do you really think Vic Mature will remember our dancing date?"

FILM CINDERELLA SOUGHT BY POLICE

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, July 2—A film-land cinderella girl, who rose from studio lunchroom cashier to screen stardom, was sought by police today for questioning in an alleged kidnap-beating administered to her former business manager and a male associate.

She is Madge Meredith, 26, who was born Marjorie Massow in Iowa Falls, Ia. Capt. W. T. Deal said an all-points police bulletin had been broadcast for her arrest.

The victims, exhibiting numerous head and body bruises, were Nicholas Dan Gianaclis, 38, who claimed he "discovered" Miss Meredith and managed her rise to stardom, and Verne Vinson Davis, 32.

They were quoted by Deal as saying they were attacked, bound, gagged and beaten by a group of men near Miss Meredith's home Monday, then were driven to a lonely canyon where for six hours they were held by an armed guard they finally overpowered and fled.

Gianaclis, in the restaurant supply business, said he was robbed of $4,000 but offered no motive for the alleged attack. He recently was engaged in litigation with Miss Meredith over title to the house where he and Davis live.

Booked on suspicion of robbery, kidnaping and assault with intent to commit murder are Damon William Klinkenberg, 32, a cook, and Barclay Leon Thomas, 33. Until an annulment of their marriage last Thursday, Thomas had been wed to Gianaclis' daughter.

Also sought are two men the victims told Deal they knew only as "Jim" and "Bill".

"I DON'T." Dancing at their wedding-less reception in Chicago are Peter Basque and his bride-to-have-been Rosanna Pevert of London, England. The English girl halted the wedding at St Francis Mission, when instead of answering "I do," she told the priest, "No, I can't go through with it because I'm homesick." To Miss Pervert's request for a second chance, Basquez says, "She had her chance and missed it."

send congress a message with a bill he had signed, and the hot cross-fire debate brought Wherry to his feet late yesterday to assert that Mr. Truman's action had reached "a new low" politically.

Wherry shouted that the President's message constituted the use of "low down political methods." He demanded that if Mr. Truman has any information on "subversive activities" he submit it to the justice department.

"I challenge him to bring one man in here who is guilty of subversive activity," Wherry said. "Subversive—he is putting them right in the corner with Communists. To me subversive means criminal."

The Nebraska senator's angry speech came after most senators had left, including Senator Taylor (D-Idaho), who earlier in the day proposed a $50,000 congressional inquiry into the President's charges.

Man Bound Over After Knife Attack

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, July 2—Ellis Richendollar of east of Fulton was bound over to the Morrow county grand jury under $500 bond when he was arraigned this morning before Mayor Ray Booher of Mt. Gilead on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Richendollar said he could not remember drawing a pen knife and stabbing Wilbs Amick of Edison. The incident occurred on Main street in Mt. Gilead early last night.

Richendollar was arrested by Charles Miller, Mt. Gilead night watchman. Amick could furnish no clues as to a motive for the stabbing. He suffered a slight wound in the abdomen. Unable to furnish bond, Richendollar was placed in jail to await a session of the grand jury.

Brain Surgery To Cure Crime Called "Publicity Stunt"

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, July 2—Millard F. Wright, who has spent 15 of his 38 years behind bars, went back to prison today after a judge branded as a "publicity stunt" the brain operation he underwent to cure his "criminal tendencies."

Judge J. Malcolm McDonald sentenced the self-styled "career burglar" to two to 12 years for 10 robberies committed in 1945.

Commenting on Wright's voluntary submission to the surgery, performed last April 15 with court permission, the judge said: "It (the story of the operation) reads like the story of a dime novel surgeon. I have no confidence in such surgery."

Dr. Yale David Koskoff, who performed the operation free of charge "in the interests of research," declined comment on the judge's statements.

Steel Seen Flat on Back If Coal Strike Comes

By International News Service

NEW YORK, July 2—Iron Age said today that the "steel industry will be flat on its back" within three weeks unless a satisfactory coal contract is negotiated.

The national metal working paper said:

"Chances of an agreement being reached were not too remote at mid-week and some large steel companies were taking the long gamble of keeping their operations at a high level on the basis that a national coal strike would not occur—or if it did it would be short lived.

"Other steel companies have been forced to cut back operations, the greatest decline occurring in units of the U. S. Steel Corporation. The operating rate for the country this week had dropped 20 points to 75 per cent of rated capacity from last week's revised rate of 95 per cent. This sharp fall off is a direct result of the coal situation."

Coal Shortage Brings "Vacation" to 62,000

By International News Service

PITTSBURGH, July 2—An estimated 62,000 production workers were on enforced vacations today due to the coal shortage brought on by a miners' protest strike and the current industry-wide miners' vacation.

Many other workers were slated for indefinite layoffs within a few days.

Operations at the Sharon Steel Co., Sharon and Farrell, Pa., will come to a standstill tonight, throwing about 3,000 out of jobs. The Shenango Furnace Co., at Sharpesville, Pa., has halted production.

About 5,000 railroad men were idled throughout the heavy coal producing regions when mine run trains were discontinued.

Previous layoffs included 10,000 steelworkers at the Carnegie-Illinois steel mills in the Pittsburgh-Youngstown area; 4,000 more at the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., and 4,000 at the Wheeling Steel Co.

The automobile industry accounted for nearly 40,000 unemployed due to shortage brought on by the coal crisis.

Mystery Disks Seen Flying Over West U.S.

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore., July 2—The report of a long-time west coast pilot was added today to the growing accounts of "flying saucers" over the west.

Richard Rankin, a veteran of more than 7,000 hours in the air, said he saw the much-debated mystery disks high over Bakersfield, Calif., and going "maybe 300 or 400 miles an hour."

There were 10 in formation flying north, he told a reporter, but when "they returned on the reverse course, headed south, there were only seven. . . .

"I couldn't make out the number or location of their propellers and couldn't distinguish any wings or tail. They appeared almost round," he said.

Rankin said he saw them June 23, but hesitated to describe what he saw until he noted others were reporting the same thing.

WALLACE PLANS TOUR

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 2—Henry A. Wallace is considering plans, as yet tentative, for another speaking tour which would begin this fall in New England and possibly would include engagements in Indiana, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Ohio among others. A spokesman for the New Republic magazine said today.

UN SITE PACT ASKED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—President Truman asked congress today to give early consideration to an agreement between the United States and the United Nations covering the control and administration of UN headquarters in New York City.

UAW ASKS PEACEMAKER'S ROLE IN FORD CO. STRIKE

CIO Union Head To Seek Conference with Plant Officials.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, July 2—The CIO United Auto Workers today sought the role of peacemaker in the six weeks strike of 3,800 unionized foremen at the Ford Motor Co.

The UAW-CIO international executive board skirted a request from the striking Foremen's Association of America (independent) that its 85,000 Ford production workers respect picket lines at three local plants.

Instead, the board directed Vice President Richard T. Leonard to seek an audience with the Ford management "in an effort to resolve the controversy."

The foremen's strike was further complicated June 23 by passage of the Taft-Hartley law.

Under its provision, after Aug. 22 the company need not bargain with its foremen whose status as union members was upheld by the supreme court under the Wagner act. The FAA has promised a court test of this provision of the new law.

U. S. Silent on Yugoslav Charge of Intimidation

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, July 2—American officials declined to comment today on veiled Yugoslav charges, made in the United Nations security council, that the United States was guilty of "open intimidation" in the Balkans.

Council delegates were unable to agree to just what Yugoslavia meant, whether it was a slap at the United States for furnishing aid to Greece, or aimed at voicing displeasure with statements made by Mark Ethridge, American representative on the UN Balkan investigation commission.

Since the United States has already spoken at length on the Balkan question and urged speed on her proposal for a semi-permanent Balkan border commission, it was doubtful whether an answer would be made to the Yugoslav statement.

Truman Gets New Plane But Plans No Quick Use

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—President Truman has a sleek new personal plane—the "Independence"—but he apparently has no early plans to use it on a long flight.

The "Independence," successor to the "Sacred Cow," landed here last night after a record-beating delivery flight from Santa Monica, Calif.

Basically, the plane is the same craft as the DC-6 airliner. The craft is owned by the army and not by the President.

Lt. Col. Harry T. Myers, presidential pilot, figured he averaged somewhat better than 350 miles an hour.

President Truman and the late President Roosevelt flew some 480,000 miles in the old "Sacred Cow."

JAP PUPPET SEEKS RETURN OF PAPERS

By The Associated Press

MANILA, July 2—Jorge B. Vargas, first chief of the Japanese-sponsored puppet administration in the occupied Philippines, today sued the United States army for the return of documents, books and other papers allegedly taken from him in Japan at the end of the war.

Vargas' counsel named Lt. Col. Warren H. Hooper, executive officer of the assistant chief of staff, Philippine-Ryukyus, command, intelligence section, as respondent.

Vargas said the documents included the last letters of instruction sent to him in Manila by the late President Manuel Quezon on Corregidor, telling him what to do when the city fell a few days later, and notes and orders from former Japanese Consul General Jitaro Kihara, representing the Japanese military administration.

He said the latter include orders to commit acts for which he now is under indictment.

Vargas at present is seeking an indefinite postponement of his treason trial.

An army spokesman said some of Vargas' papers were in army custody.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

WYANDOT BUILDING REROOFING ORDERED

State Building Inspectors Find Weaknesses in Structure.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 2—The Wyandot county courthouse, here, must be reroofed immediately according to orders received yesterday by the county commissioners. The order from state building inspectors followed a recent check of the building.

The report orders removal of the four corner domes and of the weakened masonary parapet walls and rails around the roof as well as rebuilding of the roof. The main central dome was found still in good condition.

The court house was recently redecorated on the inside and new lighting fixtures installed. This work used the funds alloted for repairs, but the commissioners are now faced with the problem of finding additional funds at once since the order of the building inspectors call for the work to be done in the next 90 days.

The inspection was made by John G. Odgers and J. W. Montgomery. The reports was submitted to the commission. A. R. Cramer, H. B. Keller, and Ross Winter ,and to Prosecuting Attorney Russell C. Price and Mayor John W. Milligan.

The inspectors also order the removal of the copper roofing on the slopes of the lower dome and its replacement with a suitable fire resistant covering.

22-Year-Old Admits Murdering Woman, 50

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 — A 22-year-old ex-sailor admitted in a signed statement he strangled a 50-year-old woman, kept her body in a closet of his room for several days, and then abandoned it in a sawdust-filled barrel, Captain James A. Kelly of the homicide squad reported.

Arrested on an anonymous tip and charged with homicide, William A. Wagner last night confessed the slaying of Margaret C. Doughtery, Kelly said.

In his statement, Kelly said, Wagner told how he beat and strangled the unmarried bookkeeper after a violent argument in a third-floor room of a boarding house.

The woman's body was found on a vacant North Philadelphia lot June 2. It was identified only three days ago through the aid of an orthopedic shoe she wore.

DOGS CHEW BOY, 11, TO DEATH AT N.Y.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 2—Eleven year old Stanley Salaban has chewed and clawed to death yesterday by a pack of bull terriers in a tract of undeveloped marshlands and a patrolmen sent to investigate the case was injured severely by the animals before they were driven off by gunfire.

The boy was attack after leaving a Bronx swimming pool where he had gone with his mother.

Several hours later, another boy crossing the marshland noticed five dogs tearing at some object—then he saw a boy's foot, chewed to the bone, protruding from tall grass and called police.

Patrolman Louis Rissone, 31, went to investigate. As he approached the pack, one of the dogs lunged at him and threw him to the ground while others circled about.

As Rissone wrestled with the animal, reinforcements arrived and fellow policemen finally shot two of the dogs while the others scattered. The other animals were rounded up and sent to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty Animals.

Police said the dogs were owned by Svend F. Sandgren who was quoted as saying the animals usually were kept locked up in a bungalow-type boathouse. He could not offer any explanation as to how they got loose.

Assistant District Attorney Marvin Lechtman said no arrest would be made in the case but that it would be presented to the grand jury when Rissone, who was injured severely, was able to appear before the body.

FOREIGN AID CALLED SEA UNION SUBSIDY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2 — A house foreign affairs subcommittee has drafted a report asserting that maritime unions are getting what amounts to a $500,000,000 a year subsidy under the administration's foreign aid program.

The report was submitted today to the full committee and subcommittee members said they expected it to be made public within a few days.

Some of the members said the subcommittee concluded after a study that the aid program was undertaken without full knowledge of economic factors involved. Specifically, they contended.

1. About $1,000,000,000 of the program goes annually for shipping costs, and the maritime workers get about half of that. This amounts, the subcommittee argues, to a "subsidy" for the unions.

2. This country is getting nothing substantial in return for materials shipped abroad because, as one member put it, "no one in the administration seems to know what the other countries have in the way of things we actually need."

3. The program seems to have been "pulled out of the air" without first determining the country's ability to provide large-scale aid.

One member said the subcommittee's studies showed "a complete lack of cooperation" between congress and the state department.

In fact, he added, "there appears to have been a studied plan to keep the house in the dark" about many aspects of the program.

The subcommittee members are Reps. John Vorys (R-Ohio), chairman, Fulton (R-Pa), Javits (R-NY), Colmer (D-Miss) and Richards (D-SC).

Tax Refund for 1946 Set at $3,030,000,000

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Federal tax refunds for the year just ended hit a record high of $3,030,000,000.

That sum is more than half as much money as the government ever collected in any year since the 1940 defense program got into high gear. Collections last year, however, were in the neighborhood of $42,500,000,000.

Refunds to individual income tax payers scored records both in number and amount, with over 30,860,000 persons sharing a total of $1,487,000,000.

Thus about three out of every four taxpayers got back a check averaging slightly over $48.

PEACETIME RATION STEPS PROPOSED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Dr. Leverett S. Lyon of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry said today "we have reached a stage where congress may well give consideration to rationing of certain products," including food.

Lyon, the association's chief executive officer, said in a statement prepared for the joint congressional committee on the economic report that "we are approaching, if we have not already reached, an emergency if not a wartime economy."

The committee is considering suggestions on how to avoid a depression and generally stabilize the nation's economy.

Millard D. Brown, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers association, told the committee that "our economy has become too big and intricate" and for this reason "we are not wise enough to legislate controls that will solve our future economic problems."

He declared his opposition to all price controls, price support programs and rationing of any commodities in time of peace.

Cooperation of Public Asked in War on New Car Profiteers

By The United Press

Automobile dealers charged today that the public itself is to blame for much of the profiteering on new cars, some of which are selling at almost 50 per cent above the manufacturer's price.

Reputable dealers across the nation reported that they were trying to keep new cars out of the hands of profiteers, who resell them at a fat profit. But they said they could do little without public cooperation.

A survey show that state and local law enforcement authorities for the most part were powerless to cope with the lush racket that has sprung up on the nation's used car lots.

Used car dealers said they were forced to sell to used car dealers. They said many of the shiny new cars find their way to profiteering used car lots through private individuals who sell them at a profit to the second-hand dealers. In Chicago, one case was uncovered in which an individual sold a car on seven dealer lots. Each time the new cars became used cars he sold them to used car dealers.

Some blame for the new car racket the public was to blame, with its willingness to buy at premium prices.

Dealers feared that public good will in the automobile business would be destroyed if the racket continued. A survey showed they were taking these steps:

Chicago — The Chicago Automobile Trade association pressed a drive to determine whether any private citizen who sold seven cars or more to used car lots was required by law to have a dealer's license. The individual also was investigated for possible failure to pay the state sales tax and fedral taxes.

City authorities charged 300 dealers with violating a zoning ordinance that requires brick buildings for used car lots offices instead of frame shacks. The Illinois attorney general's office began a statewide investigation to determine whether state laws were being violated. Some cars were selling at 43 per cent above the standard price.

Cleveland—The Cleveland Automobile Dealers association was ready to announce a plan being used by dozens of other cities to combat profiteering. Dealers will require each new car buyer to agree not to sell the car for six months, and if he is forced to do so, to sell it to the dealer from whom he bought it.

New York — Commissioner of Licenses Benjamin Fielding said under existing laws the city was powerless to fight the racket, estimated to involved gross profits already totaling $100,000,000. Fielding turned over data gleaned from an investigation to the corporation (city) counsel as the possible basis for an ordnance to restrict prices.

Columbus — The Dealers' association prepared a newspaper advertisement urging the public not to buy new cars at premium prices without first checking the list price without a reputable new car dealer.

Atlanta—Some reputable dealers were refusing to sell cars until the purchasing dealership has bought tags in the purchaser's name. Dealers said this would tend to keep new cars from second-hand lots, some of which were selling cars up to $500 above the list price.

Salt Lake City—All the state's franchised dealers were posting list prices in prominent places in their salesrooms. They also maintained master lists of new car applicants and recipients, and agreed among themselves not to sell to an individual who bought a new car and resold it within the last six months.

Dallas—Dealers said they were selling only to old customers or veterans who could show a definite need for a new car. Several dealers closed their lists for the present to cut down the backlog. Dealers blamed the new car racket on small town operators who feed the cars into Dallas lots.

Milwaukee—The governor and his attorney general were studying the case of Milwaukee County Sheriff George M. Hanley, who admitted selling eight new cars early this year.

TIMKEN WAGE PACT READY TO BE SIGNED

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., July 2—A new working contract providing hourly wage increases of more than 12½ cents and other benefits for some 15,000 Ohio employes of the Timken Roller Bearing Co., will be signed tomorrow by officials of the company and CIO-United Steelworkers union.

After extended negotiations and expiration of an old wage agreement officials of Timken and the union yesterday announced settlement of all provisions of a new one-year contract.

Union Spokesman I. W. Abel and Timken Official G. H. Turner said the pact would be signed tomorrow.

In addition to the wage clause, which provides hourly increases of 12½ cents for workers receiving less than $1.25 an hour and boosts of 10 per cent for those receiving more than that scale, the new contract included these provisions:

The company will inaugurate a $500,000 annual plan providing surgical benefits for company employes and members of their families.

Timken will increase death benefits from $1,500 to $2,000 and weekly illness payments from $15 to $20.

Paid vacations of three weeks will be offered to workers with 20 years' service, with two weeks for five years and one week for one year.

Pay for vacations will be based upon six per cent of yearly earnings for 20 years' service, four per cent after five years and two per cent after one year.

Disputes arising from a program of adjusting wage inequities will be referred to arbitration by company and union officials.

PLAN CAR DEAL AGREEMENT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 2—Columbus automobile dealers today were trying out a new dealer-customer auto sale agreement aimed at reducing the number of new autos turning up for quick re-sale as used cars. The plan is based on having new customers agree not to resell their vehicles until at least six months following purchase, except back to the original dealer. The Columbus Automobile Trades Association, Inc., claiming members among 43 of 45 new car dealers here, is sponsoring the project.

Delaware Tourists Have Mishap in Delaware

"Bun" Hoffman Delayed When Trailer Is Damaged.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, July 2—George K. "Bun" Hoffman, owner of the popular campus hangout, "Buns," at Delaware managed to get only as far as Marysville yesterday on a planned year-long trip by car and trailer before he had his first accident.

Mr. Hoffman, who is making his nationwide tour accompanied by his wife, left Delaware on Monday afternoon. Upon arriving in Marysville, his only scheduled stop, where he was to attend a meeting of the Kiwanis club, he parked his trailer too close to a utility pole and sheared off an opened window on the trailer.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman stayed overnight with former Ohio Wesleyanites, Mr. and Mrs. Jed Rankin while the window was repaired and "Bun" said today that they expect to continue their trip within a few days.

CROWD OF 4,000 SETS NEW RACE OPENING NIGHT RECORD

Little Grand Circuit Meet Gets Off To Flying Start.

By W. T. BUCHANAN

Eight dashes, including two heats of the WMRN stake race for the top purse of the evening, inaugurated the 1947 Little Grand Circuit racing program at the county fairgrounds last night before a crowd of 4,000, largest opening night attendance in the history of racing here.

The grandstand was filled to capacity before post time of 8:30 p. m. The temporary bleachers, used for the first time here, also were well filled and many fans, as usual, preferred standing positions along the rail.

For most race fans it was their first chance to see in operation the new starting barrier operated by Paul Yeung of Waynesfield, O. Spectators generally appeared to favor the new system which eliminated seemingly endless scoring and false starts before the drivers finally hear the starter shout "go."

The device consists of a spotless white pickup truck bearing two long arms. When extended the arms reach nearly across the track with the truck coming down the middle.

The horses are lined up behind the extended arms and as the truck rolls slowly toward the judges' stand the drivers find their positions. When the horses are in their proper places the starter, riding in the bed of the truck, gives the go signal, the truck dashes quickly ahead and the arms fold into brackets along the side of the truck.

To get the truck off the track and in front of the horses a runway has been opened at the first turn at the south end of the track. As the truck speeds away from the oncoming horses it is driven into the lane, actually being in front of the racers for only a short distance.

Starts Are Good

For the most part the horses appeared to get away better than under the old system. Only in one race, the final event, did the start appear to be ragged.

The feature event of last night's card was the WMRN stake race, the :20 class trot, the only race of the evening run in two heats. It was for a purse of $1,000.

Pay Mac, driven by Lou Huber Sr., and owned by Raymond Merhoff of Cincinnati, won both heats, being clocked at 2:12 and 2:18.3. In the first heat the bay gelding was forced to come up back of third position in the back stretch of the last lap to take second place at the three-quarter post, finally beating out Schuyler Hal, driven by O. C. Silvey, in the stretch. In the second heat the winner took an early lead and maintained it to the finish.

The race that brought the spectators to their feet a little quicker than any other was the :20 class pace mile dash. It was a photo finish. As the horses came into the home stretch six of the seven entries were lined up across the track, separated by less than half a length. Nelly's Dream, driven by Charles Welch and owned by Welch Bros. of Columbus was the winner by a mere head, in 2:13.2. Wilson Abbe, driven by D. Moore, just nosed out Bonnie Flower, driven by Miller, for second place.

Parshall Has Winner

Another better than average horse race was the :22 class trot at a mile and one sixteenth. The crowd was given a thrill when the veteran driver, Dr. Hugh M. Parshall, brought home Volo Brook a winner in 2:20.4. Parshall put his horse in the lead at the start only to see Smokey Stout, driven by Edwards, take the top spot in the back stretch of the first lap. Biding his time Parshall drove in second place until the horses came into the stretch. He then let Volo Brook out to win by two lengths.

Parshall also brought Mischief in second in the :25 class pace to be among the top money winners of the evening. With the exception of Lou Huber's two-heat victory with Pay Mac in the stake race no driver brought in more than one first place winner.

The mutuel windows were given a good play during the evening and some good prices were posted. Top for the evening was the $28.40 paid by Peggy Mite, driven by Harry Dick in the :25 class pace.

Local Horses Entered

A number of horses owned in Marion and vicinity were entered in the events. Among them were Brown Abbie, owned by Margaret Brown of Marion and driven by F. Brown, third, and Martin Stone, owned by Charles Norris of Plain City, seventh, in the maiden pace; Miss Traffic Officer, owned by Thelma R. Coder of Cardington, seventh, J.H.T., owned by Henry Adams of Richwood, fifth, Silver Jazoff, owned by Eugene Earl of Marion, eighth, in the :22 class trot; High Falutin, owned by Dr. J. G. McNamara of Marion, sixth, Patchen Volo II, owned by Dr. C. G. Smith, third, in the :25 class pace; Hallelujah, owned by Charles English of Marion, sixth in the :20 class trot; Joanis, owned by Lou Wickersham of Marion, second in the :12 class pace; Provo, owned by J. F. Smythe of Marion, third, J.E.W., fourth, Elmwood Chief, owned by W. J. McClaskey of Prospect, second, and Cleverness, owned by Dr. J. G. McNamara, seventh, in the :26 class trot.

Wrestles Dutch Schultz Thursday

Billy Fox, the former Master Gunnery Sergeant of the Marines will get his biggest test Thursday night at the Marion Armory when he takes on Dutch Schultz in one of the main events. Billy looks very good in his first two matches after about a year on the Pacific Coast and his cape held together by Jap teeth which was his hobby during the war, is causing much comment among the fans. The other ninety-minute match should also be a hair-raiser for it brings together the boy with the perfect body, Gordon Hessell of Milwaukee and the rough gent from Canada, Rod Fenton. Both matches are for the best two out of three falls. Sammy Delong and Bill Monroe of Marion will furnish the ten-minute prelim at 8:30. Call Markert & Lewis for your ringside seats. JOE NUXHALL, OHIO TOP-FLIGHT ATHLETE, MAKES OSL DEBUT

Pitches 11-4 Victory for His New Muncie Packer Employers.

By The Associated Press

A new star blazed in the Ohio State league firmament last night with the debut of highly-touted 19-year-old Joe Nuxhall, the Hamilton, O., all-around sports whiz.

Save for a bit of wildness, Nuxhall made his first league start for the Muncie Packers an auspicious one, hurling an 11 to 4 victory over the Dayton Indians.

Nuxhall, who came to the Cincinnati Reds' Class D Muncie farm from the Syracuse Chiefs of the International league, went until one out in the ninth before an Indian hit safely. Fourteen walks during the game enabled Dayton to tally three runs before the last inning.

Another commendable pitching performance was by Dick Strahs who hurled the last-place Lima Terriers to a 6-3 victory over league-leading Zanesville. Strahs fanned 12 Dodgers and yielded only seven hits. Jack Mansch, who has performed as a catcher, pitcher and infielder and outfielder, tied the score with his seventh homer of the season, and later clouted a timely double to pace the Terriers' winning four-run rally in the seventh.

The climbing Richmond Roses sent the Springfield Giants to their sixth straight defeat, 10 to 6, hammering three Giant pitchers for 15-hits and leading throughout. Springfield catcher Ben Haddix weighed in with his first home run of the campaign.

Bob Feller Hurt In Night Game

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 2—Rapid Robert Feller, Cleveland Indians' fireball ace, was scheduled to undergo X-ray examinations by local physicians today to determine whether he will be able to perform in baseball's all-star game at Chicago next Tuesday.

Feller's participation in the diamond classic became doubtful last night when the fireballer was forced to withdraw during the second inning of the Tribe's 9-3 victory over the St. Louis Browns at the mound city because of severe back pains.

Tribe Manager Lou Boudreau asserted he believes Feller would not be ready for pitching duty until July 10—two days after the Chicago All-Star tilt.

The major leagues' strikeout king said he first felt a sharp pain in the right side of his back last night while warming up for the game with St. Louis, but decided to start the contest.

After yielding a double to St. Louis leadoff man Bob Dillinger, the husky lowan with the fireball delivery struck out three Browns in succession. He asked to be relieved in the second after two straight hits and a long fly.

"I had good stuff in the first inning tonight, but felt knifelike pains," Feller declared in the dressing room after the game.

Bob said he believed he had suffered an injury to his back in a losing contest with the Boston Red Sox at Beantown June 21.

The fireballer said he thought a strain on his side developed after he fell off the Shibe park mound at Philadelphia and injured his left knee. In a brilliant start,

NEW YORK FANS SAY 1947 GIANTS' PUNCH RIVALS ANY NL NINE

Boston, After 15-3 Thumping, Ready To Concede They're Quite Right.

By The Associated Press

New York fans, even those with long memories, will tell you that there never was another National league team that packed the punch these Giants of 1947 do.

And if you happened to be a spectator at last night's teeing off party at the Polo grounds against the Boston Braves, you would be inclined to agree with them. Training their siege guns at four Boston pitchers, the relentless Giants blasted away for 16 hits including five home runs, a triple and a double to vanquish the Braves 15-3.

Bobby Thomson slammed a home run. Buddy Kerr hit one. And of course, the thumping trio of Johnny Mize, Willard Marshall and Walker Cooper hit one apiece. Thomson also connected for a three-bagger.

The umpires called a halt to the game after the seventh inning, saving the two nines as well as the 36,923 thoroughly delighted fans a drenching. It came too late, however, to save the Braves the worst drubbing they have suffered this season. The only solace for Boston was Tommy Holmes two homers and a triple off winning pitcher Larry Jensen.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, lost an opportunity to take over the league lead from Boston when they blew a 5-3 game to the Phils in Philadelphia earlier in the day.

In the only other National league game, the steadily rising St. Louis Cardinals won a close 2-1 game from the Pirates at night in Pittsburgh.

Detroit took sole possession of third place in the American league by nipping the White Sox in Chicago 2-1.

The Cleveland Indians defeated the Browns in a night game at St. Louis 9-3, but their victory was beclouded by an injury to their great pitching star, Bobby Feller, who had to withdraw in the second inning with severe back pains.

Bruins Blank Newark, 2-0

By DON C. BURTON

A home run by Manager Nelson Burbrink to open the seventh inning broke up a duel under the lights between "Jitts" Lawrence and Bill Woolard in the best game of the season at Lincoln park last night as the Cubs beat Newark, 2-0, before 1,480 fans.

The same two teams will play at the local park again tonight at 8.

The homer by Burbrink over the leftfield wall and was followed by a walk to Wally Rasmussen who stole second. The speedy fly chaser continued to third when catcher John Oldani overthrew second, and scored on a wild pitch by Woolard.

Gives Up 7 Hits

Lawrence, hurling his best game of the year, allowed the Browns only seven hits, three by Mike Bernadett, and walked only one. "Jitts" had a very sharp curve last night to go with his fast ball and his control was excellent. His father and mother from Wishaka, Wis., were visitors at the game.

It was a tough game for Woolard to lose as he allowed the Cubs only six hits, but walked five, and hit one batter. Lawrence got to first base on catcher's interference in the third inning.

Lawrence started the game by striking out Ed Palko and then allowed a single to Bernadett, but retired the side by striking out the dangerous Johnny Batt and Pat Aucion.

With one out in the Newark second Windy Lawrence, Brownie second sacker, singled and went to third when Wally Rasmussen fumbled a single to left by John Oldani.

Pitches Out of Danger

"Jitts" settled down with the runners on second and third and fanned George Alves and caused Woolard to roll out to short. "Jitts" again pitched out of danger in the third when Palko was sacrificed to second after his single. He retired the Browns in order in the fourth and again in the fifth.

In the sixth Lawrence had his greatest trouble but got himself out by starting a double play. Bernagett led off with a single and went to third on a double by Batt that hit the wire in right and then dropped against the fence for two bases.

"Jitts" then took a liner from Aucion's bat and doubled Batt off second. He got out of the hole by fanning dangerous Charles Hopkins who is running Burbrink a race for runs-batted-in glory.

The Browns threatened again in the eighth with one out. Palko was safe when Bobzean fumbled a hard chance at his feet. Bernadett got his third hit and then Lawrence gave his only pass to load the bases. He then showed his courage by whiffing Aucion and Hopkins. The Browns went out in order in the seventh and ninth.

Newark's New Pilot, Sad Sam Jones, Has Been Around Circuit

Sad Sam Jones, who is now [illegible] the Newark Browns, has been around in baseball.

The big right hander played [illegible] team in the American [illegible] the Detroit Tigers [illegible] Philadelphia Athletics [illegible] 21 years in the big [illegible].

Jones entered baseball in 1914 [illegible] in 1935. He played [illegible] the Boston Red Sox [illegible] York Yanks. While with [illegible] he pitched to Wally [illegible] former Marion manager. [illegible] Wally was one of the [illegible] players he ever played with. [illegible] former Marion leader [illegible] run, throw and slide [illegible] best.

Jones was a rubber-armed [illegible] never knew much of [illegible]. Only one season did [illegible] bother him. That was [illegible] with the Yanks and then [illegible] games during the year. [illegible] was in several World Series [illegible] the "Murderers Row" [illegible].

While with the Yanks he told [illegible] exploits of Babe Ruth and Wally Schang. Ruth, who was a great [illegible], liked to horse play [illegible] traveling on the trains. This [illegible] Wally's alley and the [illegible] tangled in a friendly [illegible]. He said Wally was so [illegible] that the fracas often ended [illegible] throwing Ruth into [illegible] berth of the pullman. [illegible] the first time Jones has [illegible] his hand at managing, although he served as coach at [illegible] with Tony Lazzeri in [illegible].

Since his retirement he has been at his home at Woodsfield, O., living the "life of Riley," as he puts it. He is now 55 years old. He thinks that he may be able to impart some of the knowledge of baseball learned in the big time to the youngsters of the Newark crew. He intends to learn the individual characteristics of each boy and handle him accordingly, he says.

Never the driver and umpire baiter himself, Jones is the gentleman type of manager along the lines of Bill McKechnie and Burt Shotten. He thinks too much of baseball to let rowdies spoil it.

Jones said he wished he could have played for Connie Mack before he got out of the game. He wanted to get some ideas of the game from Mack, who is a philosopher as well as a great manager.

Burbrink Retains Batting Lead, but Average Declines

Despite a 16 point drop in his average during the week, Nelson Burbrink of Marion still remained ahead of the Richmond's Bob Verrier in their struggle for the Ohio State League batting title.

According to figures compiled by the Howe News Bureau, Verrier gained two points on the 27-year-old Marion pilot-catcher as his mark fell 14 points to .396 with Muncie's Lloyd Foster moving into third at .383 followed by Don Ramsay of Springfield with .375.

Burbrink's supremacy in the specialized hitting divisions was challenged as Newark's Hopkins pulled into a tie with him at 102 total bases and Len Lamont of Muncie drew even with a total of five four ply blasts. Burbrink is ahead, however, with 70 hits and 57 runs-driven-in.

Hopkins is on top with 10 triples, but the other laurels are well divided with Lima's Don Slater in front with 16 doubles. Gene Bobzean of Marion showing the way with 45 runs tallied, and Zanesville's Bob Bartholomew rating as the best base stealer with 22 to his credit.

With seven triumphs and two defeats, Ken St. Pierre of Richmond moved into the lead among the hurlers. Sanford Lambert, Zanesville southpaw, has recorded the most victories, nine, but has absorbed three reversals in the process.

The Cubs lead the league in team fielding, but are seventh in batting with a mark at .256.

FELLER

Feller had fanned nine batters in the first four innings when the accident occurred.

In subsequent mound duties, Feller said he probably "favored" his injured knee.

Steve Gromek, "forgotten man" of the Tribe's mound staff, relieved Feller and handcuffed the Browns the rest of the way last night to receive credit for his first victory of the season.

Clubbing a two-run homer, double and single in five trips, Hank Edwards led the Tribe's attack on Ellis Kinder and Cliff Fannin. Ken Keltner also hammered a three-run circuit clout, while Boudreau rapped two doubles in four trips.

"Eyebrows" Lewis Blamed As Villain Behind Oil Shortages

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 2—A roly-poly, humpty-dumpty looking little fellow was denouncing John L. Lewis as the villain—double-dyed—behind the oil shortage.

And I was sitting there in air-conditioned comfort, thinking about my own crisis once in a town where there was no gasoline for sale. If your vacation plans this summer involve an automobile and the midwest, you'd probably be well-advised to read all of this dispatch.

The fuel shortage expected this winter and also blamed by the government on "Eyebrows" Lewis, we can worry about later, when it is cooler. Much cooler, said Max W. Ball, the Mr. Five-by-Five director of the interior department's oil and gas division. He said "Eyebrows" clipped his fellow Americans going and coming.

Good Salesman—For Oil

"The best salesman the oil business ever had is John L. Lewis," he continued. "With his coal strikes and his threats of strikes he has scared more people into using oil burners than a generation of oil salesman could."

The rosy-faced Ball, one of America's distinguished geologists, brought along the figures to prove that Lewis has frightened 50,000 householders a month into replacing their coal furnaces with oil burners.

That was bad enough, Ball added, but old "Eyebrows" men kept having strikes. This cut down the steel supply until the oil and gas folks couldn't get enough pipe to supply their new customers. Some other things are entering into the buildup, too, and if you'll take a long breath for a long sentence, I'll explain the situation in Ball's own words.

Non-Stop Sentence

"If there are no further oil strikes which have already cost us 13,000,000 barrels this year (he said), and if there's no prolonged coal strike, and if this shipyard strike doesn't tie up too many tankers, and if there's no steel strike, and if there is no railroad strike, and above all if we don't have too severe a winter, we'll get by with nothing more than spot shortages, but if too many of these things go wrong the shortages may be severe."

Ball told the house interstate and foreign commerce committee that the stories of Russian gasoline purchases in California being responsible for the shortage add up to so much nonsense. He said the Russians were buying one-eighth of one per cent of the total oil output, or about a half of one day's production.

Midwesterners, he said cannot escape the gasoline pinch. It is upon 'em now. Many a motorist will go from filling station to filling station (praying that his motor won't go dead in the process) begging for gasoline. He said this won't be fun. If ever a fellow has an all-gone feeling it's when he's in a strange town, where every filling station is fresh out of gas.

Knows from Experience

This happened to me in Saltillo, Mexico. There I was and there I thought I'd have to stay and maybe go into the serape business. In all Saltillo there wasn't a drop of gasoline on sale. The thing to do in a case like this is stroll into a saloon and tell your troubles to the bartender.

So the barkeep said he'd find a camprador, who turned out to be a young fellow with a wheelbarrow. The comprador said I'd need to wait until dark and, because of the risks, I'd have to pay well. He returned late that night with a can of gasoline on his wheelbarrow; I gave him $5 for five gallons, asked no questions and got out of Saltillo.

I had no idea, until Ball said so, that because of John L., the same thing's likely to happen this summer in Missouri.

Synthetic rubber is not a true synthetic because it is not a chemical twin of the natural product.

G.O.P. WEIGHS FRESH TAX CUT ATTEMPT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Republican leaders approached a decision today on a windup legislative program in which they may try again to cut taxes.

They probably will put off until next year, however, final action on universal military training, federal aid to education and a long-range housing program.

The top question before the Republican lawmakers at a conference arranged by House Speaker Martin (Mass) and Chairman Taft (Ohio) of the Senate G.O.P. policy committee was whether to attempt to re-pass the vetoed $4,000,000,000 tax reduction bill.

Last minute nose counts apparently left doubt about the senate's ability to override possible new presidential rejection of a measure to start the proposed income tax cut Jan. 1 instead of yesterday's effective date in the original bill.

In an apparent bid for the vital Democratic support needed for such a plan, Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) of the house ways and means committee wrote Senator Byrd (D-Va) promising prompt consideration and early action in January of a community property tax proposal.

There was some talk of seeking senate passage in the closing house before the scheduled July 26 adjournment, leaving the bill on the President's desk. But Taft told a reporter he doesn't believe any such attempt will be made.

"If we find we have the votes to override a veto, we'll try to pass the bill," he said. "If we don't I think we'll just let it go until January."

A German monk, Berthold Schwartz, is credited with inventing the cannon. Stones and darts first were used as projectiles.

Recently when Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus played in Baltimore their clown alley acquired two more joeys for a few performances in the person of the Stroud Twins, comedians on Vaughn Monroe's CBS show, which was playing in town. The Strouds, who were at one time trapeze artists and wire walkers with the Big Tops and who still retain a wide acquaintanceship among circus folk, visited the lot and were persuaded to do a "walk around" by the sad-faced clown, Emmett Kelly.

MARKET LEADERS RESUME ADVANCE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 2—Stock market leaders resumed the forward push today, after absorbing considerable profit cashing on Tuesday's bulge.

Shorts were said to have accomplished most of their covering the day before but investment demand, based partly on earnings, business optimism and hopes for a quick solution of the coal wage dispute, served as a further drop for favorites.

Gains of fractions to about 3 points predominated near the fourth hour. Oils and rails were popular.

New highs for the year were recorded by Superior Oil, up better than 3 on a sharp climb in net for nine months; Phillips Petroleum, Ohio Oil, Pure Oil, Standard Oil of Cal., Joy Mfg., Pepsi-Cola, United Fruit and Nickel Plate preferred. Several subsequently slipped.

In front most of the time were Santa Fe, Pennsylvania Railroad, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio, Nickel Plate common, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, American Telephone, Anaconda, Wayne Pump, American Can and Owens-Illinois. Occasional laggards included Goodyear, Woolworth, Oliver Corp., Boeing, Westinghouse, General Electric, J. C. Penney, Union Carbide, Texas Co. and Standard Oil (NJ).

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

"I WOULDN T be surprised to see Mary being put to sleep until morning' I told my anxious husband

Howe come' he queried lifting his head alertly

'Katharine is so concerned about this tension of Mary's while waiting for word to come from Harriet that she had me telephone Dr Twitchell to come over as soon as possible, instead of waiting for his usual afternoon visit He promised to be here within the hour, and several minutes of that time have gone by already

Dicky's sigh of relief came from the soles of his shoes

'Gosh I m glad to hear that!' he exclaimed 'The old Doc is a tower of strength, and a mighty able citizen He'll be able to think of something, I m sure But he doesn't know what's really eating Mary, does he?"

'Katharine has asked me to tell him everything this afternoon" I said

"Then,' Dicky said quickly, 'if you don't need me, and I m sure you won't, I think I ll toddle up to the studio and put in a few licks of work Monahan's howling like a wolf for that magazine illustration—the one for Madame What's-her-name's latest opus"

Dicky s Vagueness

"I wouldn't know," I told him laughing, for Dicky s vagueness as to the names of the famous authors whose books and magazine serials he illustrates, always amuses me "But run along If we need you for anything, I'll call you '

'Give me a ring anyway as soon as Doc Twitchell has decided what to do," he said "I don t envy you your job of telling him the story You always get the sculleri jobs, don t you, old dear?"

He gave me an affectionate peck on the cheek, and gripped my shoulder

But you clean 'em up adequately, he said, with heady approval in his voice

Then he went through the outer door, and I rang for Room Service to clear away the luncheon trays While I was debating the advisability of knocking on the bedroom door to get the other trays, Katharine came through it with two trays heavily laden with empty dishes which she set down on the couch the nearest place at hand

'Everything s here" she said and I e got to dash back'

She hurried back through the door closing it after her, and I busied myself with putting the room in order setting the trays outside the door for Room Service

Everything in Order

They came p omptly for them, and before it was time for Dr Twitchell to arrive everything wa in order too much so indeed as I would have preferred to busy my mind and hands with something while I waited the physician s coming

I was getting as jittery as Mary I rebuked myself sharply, but with no avail, and by the time Dr Twitchell s knock sounded on the door I felt that I also needed his services

Come in, Dr Twitchell, I said trying to smile a welcome as I opened the door

'Thank you,' he answered, but instead of taking a chair, he put his hand on my shoulder and swung me around facing him

'Let s have a look at you, he suggested, and he gave me a long steady glance, while his fingers slipped to my pulse

I m afraid this is getting too much for you, he said

Perfectly All Right

"Oh, no Dr Twitchell!' I protested 'I am perfectly all right, and I must pull my weight on this load I am very strong, you know It i—it's just this new thing that's come up

'Ah, yes, Mrs Beckett said you had something to tell me, he said Now can it wait for five or ten minutes '

Why—why—I suppose it can ' I replied fairly hypnotized by the undercurrent of command in his voice

'Then please bring a glass of cold water in here,' he said, and I went to Dicky s bathroom and brought back the water He handed me a capsule as I came up to him

'Swallow that' he said "drink the water then sit down and relax for ten minutes Then you may talk'
